GALLATIN.

ALBERT GALLATIN., by JOHN AUSTIN STEVENS. [American Statesmen Series.] 16mo. pp. 416. Bookb.
L. Mifflin & Co.

It cannot be said that the name of Albert Gallatin is popularly identified with any positive principles of government or any clear line of policy, as the names of Hamilton and Jefferson are. His most brilliant services to the country were as a practical administrator rather than as a party leader, and yet there are few of our public men to whom, more readily than to him, history applies the title of "Truth." "The Return of the Family," "The Moral Crisis," translated from the French by Rev. Leonard Woolsey Bacon. 8vo., paper, 15 cents.

DESKS. For Boys, 100 to 120, and Girls, 80 to 100.

DRY GINGER.—A new and attractive book by some of the most prominent writers of personal and domestic history.

The greater part of Mr. Stevens's frank, simple and straightforward book is devoted to a careful narrative of Gallatin's financial administration, and next in importance to this, the excellent chapter devoted to Gallatin's brilliant diplomatic services, the party quarrels and combinations in which he was for so many years a principal factor are treated with less minuteness, but doubtless as are much as they deserve; and the study of an honorable and attractive character is completed by some interesting pages of personal and domestic history.

Publish this Day:

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

By Anthony Trollope. 4to, paper, 20 cents. No. 341 in Harper's Franklin Square Library.

A very frank record of his literary work and of his opinions.

 The main interest of the book is literary. It gives a detailed history of every one of Trollope's novels that appeared before the date at which the autobiography closed, and the reasons which, in his opinion, led to their success or failure.

 His views on fiction and its place in contemporary literature are set forth in considerable detail. A number of anecdotes of himself, public men, authors and publishers are scattered throughout the book.—Atheneum, London.

THE MANHATTAN FOR NOVEMBER

CONTAINS:

Miss Ellen Terry and Mrs. Stirling in "Romeo and Juliet." Enriched by Krehbiel's "Graphic." From the "Graphic."

Henry Irving and His Work, by A. S. Fitch, after Irving's genius as a manager, with portraits of Irving and Miss Terry, engraved by Vinton.

WORCESTER, THE MODERN AGE, by Henry C. Hodder, with seven lead scenes, illustrating lines of Worcester. The illustrations, drawn by Granville Perkins and St. John Harper, are engraved by Hayman, Shulz, Schmitz, Miller, Clement, Fennell and Baker.

THOMAS CAELIUS AND HIS INFLUENCE ON THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, by Dr. James McCosh, ex-President of Princeton University. Lectures on Art, Science and History. Nov. 1. (W. H. Dallin's.)

WILLIAM LUBBE, the greatest art critic of the age, by Prof. J. L. Gardiner, with portrait.

THE OLD CRADLE OF LIBERTY—FANEUIL HALL, by William A. Russ, with numerous illustrations.

The column comprises a fascinating instalment of Julian Hawthorne's "Beatrix Randolph," now approaching a conclusion; the first part, "Thinking (symbol)," a story of New York and New York life, by Edgar Fawcett—which will run through October; and an amusing short story, "John Brown comes a Lawyer Affairs."

A few poems are two exquisite translations from the Spanish by Richard Heydorn; "The floral Poem," by George Parsons Lathrop; and poems by William H. Hayne, W. H. Mitchell, Frank D. Sherman, James Barry Hensel, Edith Thomas, C. H. Roscoe and others.

Recent Literature, Town Talk and Samagnoli.

The December number will have a poem by C. E. Stedman, entitled "The Old Picture-Dealt"; with an illustration frontispiece drawn by Harper, and engraved by French; "Pompeii, Past and Present," beautifully illustrated, and a paper on Utricula, the birthplace of Trajan, illustrated with drawings by Corradi, the famous Italian water-color painter.

The January number, of 1884, will have an important paper on "The Luther Monument at Worms," by Prof. J. Leonard Coccoing, superbly illustrated, the frontispiece being a head of Luther, engraved by Vinton.
